LM resident takes part in African-American media panel

PHILADELPHIA-Bryn Mawr resident Rhonda Hill Wilson, Esq., recently served as a panelist for the Philadelphia Bar Association's Bar-New Media program, Getting to Know Philadelphia's African-American Media. As both a trial attorney and co-host of The Morning Team on WURD 900 AM, Hill Wilson shared her insights with the program participants. The media panel was held on Feb. 25 in Philadelphia. A. Michael Pratt, chancellor of the Philadelphia Bar Association, opened the meeting. Gina Rubel, the Bar-New Media Committee chair and president/CEO of Furia Rubel Communications, moderated. The panel also featured Bobbi Booker, Philadelphia-based journalist, radio personality and blogger; Sheinelle Jones, News Anchor for Fox29's Good Day Philadelphia; Michael Days, editor of the Philadelphia Daily News; Karin Phillips, community affairs reporter for KYW Newsradio 1060; Harold Jackson, editorial page editor for The Philadelphia Inquirer; and Lehronda Upshur, news anchor and public affairs director for Power 99, Q102 and My 106.1 FM.

Hill Wilson is an active member of the Philadelphia Bar Association and an award-winning attorney who has been practicing law for nearly three decades in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Hill Wilson has been named the Pennsylvania ambassador for the United Negro College Fund (UNCF) "A Mind Is" Annual Giving Society and has been named one of the Top Black Lawyers in the Tri-State Area by The Network Journal. She has received the Presidential Award from the National Bar Association, and she is a member of the Million Dollar Advocates Forum.
