Louis W. Fryman to join Conrad O'Brien firm

Philadelphia — Conrad O'Brien Gellman & Rohn, P.C. is pleased to announce that Louis W. Fryman of Lower Merion has joined the firm as a shareholder. He will continue his national litigation and business practices and further strengthen the firm's arbitration and mediation practice headed by former federal Chief Judge Louis C. Bechtle.

"Lou is a giant in the Pennsylvania legal and business community, and everyone in the Conrad O'Brien family is thrilled to have the opportunity to work shoulder to shoulder with him—delivering outstanding service to our clients," said Firm Chairman Jim Rohn. "His guidance and wisdom, gained from years of leading a major firm and service on numerous corporate and community boards, will make us all markedly better at what we do."

While Fryman is best known for his contributions to the law, he has consistently given his time to the community, serving on eight Boards of Directors, including the Boards of Main Line Health System, The Lankenau Hospital Foundation and the Walnut Street Theatre. Most notably, he is in his second term and was just re-appointed as chair of the State Ethics Commission of Pennsylvania.

He and his wife, Rhoda, have two children and four grandchildren.

Joining Fryman at Conrad O'Brien will be his longtime assistant, Sandy O'Brien.

Hill Wilson appointed to Salvation Army board

PHILADELPHIA — The Salvation Army of Greater Philadelphia has appointed Bryn Mawr resident Rhonda Hill Wilson, Esq., to its advisory board. Wilson's past leadership and dedication to serving the charitable organization prompted the appointments. As a member of the advisory board, Hill Wilson will help ensure that The Salvation Army continues to deliver services to those in need. Last year, the organization provided nearly 617,000 meals and more than 322,000 nights of lodging to Philadelphia-area residents who otherwise would have gone hungry or slept in the streets.

Hill Wilson is an award-winning attorney who has been practicing law for nearly three decades in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. She concentrates her practice in nursing home negligence, while also handling medical malpractice, catastrophic personal injury, wrongful death, motor vehicle accident and premises liability matters.

Richard Odorisio heads VF Convention Bureau

PLYMOUTH MEETING — Richard J. Odorisio of Bryn Mawr, chief operating officer of VF Hotels, has been elected to chair the board of directors of the Valley Forge Convention and Visitors Bureau (VFCVB) for a one-year term.

Odorisio, whose company owns and operates the local Crowne Plaza and Valley Forge Suites hotels and Fairfield Inn, is a 30-year regional hospitality veteran with prior experience at the Philadelphia Convention and Visitors Bureau and the Omni and Wyndham hotel chains. He succeeds hotelier Andrew S. Tod, executive vice president/principal of GF Management Inc., who served two one-year terms as chairman and remains on the board.

"I'm honored to enjoy the confidence of the Bureau's board of directors to lead the organization representing one of Montgomery County's most important and successful economic engines – its hospitality industry," said Odorisio. "The meetings and visitors our staff helps bring here spend in excess of a billion dollars annually and support nearly 20,000 jobs at no cost to county government or citizens. We're extremely proud of the value our sales and marketing efforts add to our more than 500 member businesses."

VFCVB's $5.2 million budget is funded by Montgomery County's room occupancy tax, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania tourism promotion matching funds and membership dues. The 2 percent tax is assessed all hotel guests on the cost of room rentals.

Also elected to the executive committee were officers Daniel J. Reavy, Verizon-PA (vice chairman); Raymond N. Skaddan, Larson Allen, CPAs (treasurer); and Suzanne S. Ryan, PECO Energy Company (secretary).

In the past month, Montgomery County's Board of Commissioners, which appoints all directors of the county-based private, non-profit corporation, named the following to the Bureau's board: Daria Fink, president, The Encampment Store (at Valley Forge National Historical Park); Richard W. Kubach, III, vice president, RWK Enterprises Inc. (owner and operator of the Best Western Inn at King of Prussia); and Rafael A. Suárez, executive director of Norristown's Elmwood Park Zoo. All will serve four-year terms.

Mark Bettger new market development specialist

PHILADELPHIA — Gregory FCA, one of the nation's top 50 public relations firms, announced Mark Bettger has joined the company as market development specialist for the quickly growing public relations firm based in Ardmore. In his new role, Bettger will identify and build practice areas in key vertical markets the firm serves. Bettger, who previously worked for high-end magazine publisher CurtCo Robb Media, will initially focus his outreach on gaining market share in professional services, as well as growing Gregory FCA's recently announced green division, G3.

"Mark comes from a rich publishing pedigree working for one of the world's leading luxury publishers," says Greg Matusky, founder and president of Gregory FCA. "We undertook an extensive search to find a professional with his level of media and sales experience, as well as a proven track record of identifying and penetrating new markets."

While at CurtCo Robb Media, Bettger helped facilitate the 2004 launches of the Robb Report Motorcycling magazine and Robb Report Luxury Home titles. A schooled sales professional, he is experienced in developing emerging verticals and uncovering overlooked market opportunities.

Bettger holds a B.A. in music business management from Berklee College of Music, Boston. He is also a member of Organizational Dynamics at University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia.

For more information about Gregory FCA, please contact Jackie Zima at 610-642-8253, ext. 138; 215-534-2973 (mobile); or write to Jackie@GregoryFCA.com. To download hi-res photos of Bettger, visit: <http://www.flickr.com/photos/24463731@N03/>.

Emily F. Pollard, M.D., named 'Woman of Accomplishment'

HAVERTOWN — Emily F. Pollard, M.D. FACS, Ardmore resident and Bala Cynwyd plastic surgeon, has been named one of Women's Yellow Pages 14 Women of Accomplishment for 2008-09.

Pollard is featured on the cover of the 22nd edition and profiled in a special section within the Women's Yellow Pages print directory. Ellen Fisher, founder and publisher of the Women's Yellow Pages said, "The Women of Accomplishment are at different stages of their careers, and work in diverse fields, but they all share the vital trait of being impassioned leaders. These exceptional women embody the word 'accomplishment,' and it fills me with pride to be able to honor them."

In her profile, Pollard reveals many facets of her personal life and career, summing it up with a comment about how she chose her specialty. "I knew I wanted to go into medicine because of my father who is a surgeon. I fell in love with the vast scope of plastic surgery: caring for women and men, young and old, head to toe. Although women are the biggest consumers, when I started out, only 5 percent of plastic surgeons were women. Now it's heading towards 10 percent. We're a bunch of gutsy women."

Pollard shares her keys to success: "Discipline, hard work, and balancing it all with a sense of humor."
